THE LONDON BOMBINGS... Issue No. 11

PUT THE GOVERNMENT ON TRIAL FOR MURDER!

THE PROVISIONAL IRA murdered ten British soldiers on the streets of London last month. The soldiers were killed when two bombs exploded in Hyde Park and Regents Park. More than fifty other soldiers and civilians were injured.

This latest cowardly attack by the murderers of the IRA surprised the Establishment. They'd been boasting for many months that the IRA were finished and that the security forces had them beaten. The two bomb blasts and the toll of death they inflicted proved the Establishment wrong yet again.

Those people with any knowledge of the real situation in Northern Ireland knew that the Provisionals were capable of carrying out the sort of terrorist atrocity which shook London last month. The fact remains that Republican terrorism is still a force to be reckoned with. The Government is no closer to defeating these butchers now than it was ten years ago.

Since the current 'troubles started in Northern Ireland more than two thousand people have been murdered. Yet the Government has done nothing effective to stop the perpetrators of this violence. Consequently, they must share equally in the blame for all the men, women and children who have been butchered as a direct result of their inability to bring the murderers to justice.

The security forces in Northern Ireland know who the murderers are but they are not given the power to deal with them. They are forced to stand back and watch as the murders continue and the toll of victims rises.

The Government traitors at Westminster are as guilty of murder as are the psychopaths of the IRA. They must pay the consequences for all those that have died as a direct result of their ineptitude.

Two thousand innocent victims demand justice!

NEW EDITOR

JOE PEARCE is taking over as editor of Nationalism Today as from this issue. He has taken over the editorship from Nick Griffin who is unable to carry on due to increasing work commitments. Nick will remain as an Assistant Editor, however, and fully intends to contribute articles to the magazine on a regular basis.

We are also pleased to be able to welcome two more Assistant Editors to the magazine as from this issue. They are Jimmy Capes and John Field.

BANKS GIVE MORE MONEY TO BLACKS

MORE EVIDENCE has recently emerged as to how the barons of Big Business are pumping money into the Black communities.

A team of 25 managers has been hurriedly assembled by financial institutions to see how the "private sector" can help solve the "inner city problems" that contributed to the recent Race Riots. In reality this means that capitalist enterprises, such as the big banks and insurance companies, are preparing to give even more money to the festering Black communities in Britain's cities.

Initiatives under discussion by this group of leading capitalists include aid for housing in the Black areas. This aid will include finance to make vandalised property – damaged by Black mobs – inhabitable once again.

RACE-MIXING

Meanwhile, the National Westminster Bank has given a Hampshire school £1,000. This was the top prize in a competition run by the bank to encourage race-mixing. The school won with a project to develop "better racial understanding through exchange visits."

The award was presented in the new 600 ft. NatWest tower, a monument to capitalist usury which disfigures central London, and was handed over by Black TV "star" Lenny Henry.

Meanwhile, the fantastically rich Gulbenkian Foundation has paid for a series of conferences to encourage "multi-cultural education" in schools.

And Fords have given the Barking and Dagenham Council for Racial Equality a cheque for £1,000 to help with its work in the area.

It is not in the least bit surprising that banks, insurance companies and multi-nationals should get together to help Black rioters and muggers. These super-powerful financial concerns have a vested interest in promoting a multi-racial society, and they will do everything in their power to ensure that race-mixing continues.

Meanwhile, millions of Whites rot on the dole without the least bit of help from anyone.

"SCHOOL CHILDREN ARE RACIALIST" – Official Report

SEVEN year old primary school children are aware of racial differences and do not want to make friends with children of other races. This is revealed by a Newcastle University study published recently.

The researchers, A. G. Davey and P. N. Mullin of the University's Department of Social Work Studies, reached this conclusion after looking at 400 children in 16 primary schools in Yorkshire and London. Half the schools were multi-racial and half mostly White. The children were asked who they would most like to sit next to in class, who they wanted to play with in the playground, and who they would most like to take home.

In their report, published in the prestigious journal Education Research, the two social scientists state: "The responses to each of the three questions indicate very little desire for inter-ethnic friendship" on the part of the children.

The researchers conclude that the most outstanding feature of the research is the early age at which awareness of ethnic differences begins to influence the choice of friends.

These new scientific findings, from a source certainly not sympathetic to NF beliefs, further reinforces the racial nationalist position that feelings of racial awareness and a desire to associate more with members of one's own race is inherited and innate.

BLACK SCHOOLCHILDREN: Even by the age of seven they have become racialist

As these seven-year-old children show, we are all born racialist – whether we are White, Black or Brown. That is why multi-racial societies, however brutal their brainwashing and however savage the silencing of their opponents, can never succeed in the long run.

Blacks in blue

A PLAN to give preference to coloured applicants for police jobs is being considered by the Home Office.

At the moment graduates and former police cadets are given priority. But if the idea is extended to ethnic minorities even fully-manned forces will have to adopt a policy of 'positive discrimination' to employ extra staff.

A Home Office spokesman admitted that the move was "in line with Lord Scarman's recommendations that vigorous steps should be taken to recruit more members of the ethnic minorities to the police service."

Inevitably, the anti-British Commission for Racial Equality welcomed "any measures the police might be able to take to recruit more from ethnic minorities."

The CRE said that the move would not flout the Race Relations Act, which allows "positive discrimination" to balance numbers between different racial groups in jobs.

'British' Capitalism and Overseas Investments

RIGHT-WING Reactionaries may admit that International Capitalism is harmful to National Sovereignty, but they are always quick to jump to the defence of 'British' Capitalism. They will claim that 'British' capitalists and 'British' Big Business are perfectly all right.

A closer look at the activities of these 'British' capitalists, however, will show that they are just as harmful to National Sovereignty as are the international banks or the big multinationals.

The activities of businessmen in the City of London have always run contrary to the national interest. This is particularly evident today with the City's large-scale export of share capital.

The removal of all obstacles to the free movement of capital throughout the world has long been one of the City's main demands. So when the Thatcher Government abolished all exchange controls in October 1979 the City's financial institutions were not slow to seize the opportunities that this created. In the first nine months of 1980 pension funds, insurance companies and other financial institutions purchased £1,338 million worth of foreign company shares compared with only £260 million in the same period in 1979. In fact, these financial institutions invested more money abroad in 1980 than they invested in the whole of Britain.

But it was not only 'British' financial institutions which invested vast sums of money overseas, all different types of 'British' capitalists were rushing to invest their money in foreign countries. The grand total of foreign securities bought by 'British' investors of all kinds in 1980 was £2,780 million, which was three times as much as in 1979, when it amounted to £890 million.

However, this enormous amount of exported share capital is only the tip of the foreign investment iceberg. Far more money is sent abroad as direct investment by the 'British' multinationals. Total overseas investment of all kinds last year rose to a staggering £6,870 million.

Another argument often adopted by the Reactionary Right is that international banks such as Chase-Manhattan may be bad but that 'British' banks such as Barclays or NatWest are perfectly all right. This argument falls down, however, when one considers the enormous amount of foreign investment carried out by these so-called 'British' banks.

All of the major 'British' banks have indulged in massive foreign investment exercises in recent years. For instance, they have spent more than 2,000 million dollars buying into the American banking system.

Midland Bank purchased a majority stake in Crocker Bank of California last year. This cost them 820 million dollars which was by far the biggest single investment of any British bank. Barclays, Lloyds and National Westminster have also invested heavily in the American banking system and this investment seems likely to increase even further in coming years.

When all of this foreign investment by so-called 'British' capitalism is taken into account, it is no wonder that British industry currently finds itself in the depths of recession. British workers are toiling to produce capitalism's profits only to find the wealth their labour produces being sent abroad to finance foreign industry and foreign businesses.

British industry will only prosper when all wealth produced in Britain is reinvested in Britain. And this can only be achieved with the defeat of capitalism which is by its very nature internationalist.

The ownership of British industry must be taken away from the unpatriotic and selfish businessmen who currently own and control the Nation's wealth. These have no interest in what is best for Britain but are only interested in maximising profits.

British industry must be put in the hands of British workers!

O.K. for some

LAST year was a tough one for British Leyland chairman, Sir Michael Edwardes, as the BL annual report shows.

Edwardes, the Tories' and the mass media's No. 1 boss, had to sack thousands, close factories, and force upon his workers a lousy 3.8% pay 'rise'.

As it was such 'hard work' for poor Michael, he was awarded a 46% pay rise – taking his pay from £65,400 to £95,500!

The BL annual report came out on the same day as the company announced a further 500 redundancies. And a recent report revealed that in capitalist Britain the rich were still getting richer whilst the poor were still getting poorer.

SACRED COWS

BARCLAYS BANK is the second most profitable bank in the world. National Westminster is a close third. A survey of the world's top banks in the June edition of The Banker showed that only the Banco do Brazil makes bigger profits. Meanwhile, the Confederation of British Industry revealed that a brief economic pick-up in the West Midlands had petered out. The West Midlands are the centre of the motor and engineering industries, but the CBI says that manufacturing activity and output are "very flat". More than half of the companies there expect to make further job cuts over the next three months.

Among the biggest problems facing British firms are high interest rates which make it too expensive to buy new equipment. The banks are growing fatter and fatter while our productive industries are bled to death.

Britain has become a usurers' paradise while millions of workers and small businessmen are driven to the dole queues.

The National Front has always been committed to stripping the banks of their fraudulent power to create credit. Does this go far enough? The banks have been described as the Sacred Cows of Capitalism. The question Nationalists must ask is this: do cows exist to be worshipped, or to be milked?

SMALL FIRMS GO BUST

BRITISH FIRMS are going to the wall at an ever increasing rate. Business failures in the first three months of 1982 were nearly 15 per cent up on the same period last year.

So says the latest report by Trade Indemnity, the leading UK credit insurance underwriters.

For Trade Indemnity's figures show that 879 of their policy holders went to the wall in the first quarter of 1982, compared to 767 in the first three months of last year and only 494 in the same period in 1980.

Worst hit is the furniture and upholstery trade with 122 firms going bust against a mere 66 last year – a rise of 85 per cent.

Indeed, few trades have escaped.

Building and construction failures are up from 128 to 150, engineering and metals from 114 to 150, food and agriculture from 31 to 36, and retail and wholesale distribution from 150 to 202.

So in Thatcher's Britain, we see that the productive elements of the economy are allowed to go bust, whilst the faceless multi-nationals grow.

That is the true meaning of Capitalism.

Playing At Parasites

Big Business spongers make millions on the London Stock Exchange

THE RECENT CASE of three schoolboys who made, on paper, a million pounds by wheeling and dealing with stocks and shares underlines the corrupt nature of capitalism.

For the winners of the Schools Stock Exchange Business Game – Ian Blackman, Carl Zettie and Nicholas Farmer, all 18, from Burnham Grammar School in Buckinghamshire – made an astonishing £1,109,520, thus more than doubling their original capital of £500,000.

And the boys put their success down to instinct, and "gambling" rather than any true understanding of the monetary system or any financial wizardry on their part.

If 3 inexperienced schoolboys can make over a million, just by "gambling" on the Stock Exchange, just think what an experienced financial parasite can do – and, indeed, frequently does – just by moving capital from one company to another, and from one country to another – creating artificial booms and slumps on the way.

The way in which the boys were able to manipulate money on the Stock Exchange also underlines the fact that to achieve economic stability in Britain the Stock Exchange must be abolished.

CAPITALIST JUSTICE AT WORK

A BUDGET commentary in the Sunday Times has revealed that it was neither the miners nor the railwaymen who grabbed the largest pay increase last year.

The culprits were company directors who, after awarding themselves 15% on average in 1980, took a massive 20% in 1981.

Lonrho, Shell, the Heron Corporation and ACC all pay their top men £200,000 a year. But Britain's highest paid director was Richard Giordano, chief executive of BOC International, with a salary of £477,100.

The Tories have always bred – and continue to do so – disaffection and unrest by their grasping injustices.

How on earth do they expect to persuade nurses, engineering workers or civil servants to accept modest pay rises whilst at the same time they encourage the excessive and greedy demands of business executives, financiers, property speculators and take-over merchants?

A Budget which enables the rich to get richer and the poor to get poorer has done nothing to remedy the problem.

The Tories must go!

The Family Under Attack

DIVORCE and remarriage are changing the face of the traditional British family. This was the verdict of a report from the independent Study Commission on the Family.

The report states that one in five children born today will witness their parents divorce before they reach the age of 16.

A quarter of marriages will end in divorce and the risk is higher the younger people marry.

The report also states that there were 920,000 one-parent families in 1978 and one in eight children are currently living in such families.

The result of this increasing breakdown of marriage is that more and more children are either living with single parents or in "reconstituted" families with children from more than one original family.

This gradual erosion of the family unit must be looked upon disdainfully because it indicates yet another encroachment upon the traditional British way of life by the alien forces of liberalism and capitalism. The Coca-Cola culture which now prevails throughout the Western World has added an immense strain on the domestic lives of those people living under it. Consequently divorce and remarriage are becoming common-place and the family unit has been correspondingly weakened.

No one is denying that unmarried parents are often able to bring their children up without any real problems arising. In fact, many single-parent families are very closely-knit with the children experiencing no noticeable harmful effects from their lack of a second parent. The fact remains, however, that a strong family unit is a necessary part of a healthy society.

It will be a chief responsibility of the New Order to create an environment where undue pressure is not put upon married couples and where strong families can once more flourish. In fact, the family unit must act as the very foundation for all that the New Order seeks to build.

FALKLANDS FOOTNOTES

• SEVERAL large multi-national firms, including Coca-Cola, gave large sums of money to help the Argies' war effort. Others gave the green light to their employees in Argentina to raise collections on the firms' premises and during the firms' time.

* * * * * *

• IT has now been confirmed that Israel was the only country that continued to supply the Argies during the actual fighting. Also nearly all of the enemy's planes were either Israeli built (Mirages) or were sold second hand to them from the Israeli air force (Skyhawks).

* * * * * *

• AS mentioned in the last issue of NT, we had to pay a heavy price for the Tory and Labour defence cuts. The lack of the Sea Wolf defence missile is but one tragic example.

* * * * * *

• NAZI v. NAZI. It was amusing to hear Tory MPs raving about the 'Nazi' government in Argentina, or the 'Fascist' dictatorship in Buenos Aires. This despite the fact that several Tories sit on the board of directors of firms which have been trading with the Junta for years!

Not to be outdone in name calling, the Argies also referred to us as 'Nazis' and our troops as the 'British SS'.

Hitler would have held a most successful recruiting drive!

* * * * * *

• OUR 'ally' America stabbed us in the back again by refusing to supply us with air-borne early warning aircraft (AWACS). This would have enabled our aircraft to intercept the enemy every time his planes were launched.

* * * * * *

• TO hear the Tories crowing about our victory in the Falklands, anyone would have thought that it was the Tory party and not our servicemen who had done the bloody fighting! This is even more sickening when one remembers that it was these very same Tories who were responsible for the Argies being able to invade the Falklands in the first place!

* * * * * *

• THE Argies had a weird world-wide coalition of supporters. From American big business to Russian communists, from Israeli arms-suppliers to IRA terrorists.

For our part, our supposedly new found 'friends' in the Common Market let us down badly. Only our old friends in the WHITE Commonwealth stood by us. Let's hope we learn the lessons of the Falklands.

Capitalism poisons Europe

CAPITALIST greed has destroyed much of Britain's countryside. It has polluted waterways and destroyed wild life. Now the curse of capitalism has affected the very air that we breathe – for acid rain is now becoming a serious environmental problem.

Acid rain is caused by vast quantities of industrial waste – produced by giant business empires – seeping into the atmosphere to form sulphuric and nitric acids. These acids are then returned in rain, hail and snow.

In Europe, for instance, more than 78 million tons of sulphur dioxide are pumped into the atmosphere every year – and another 26 million tons comes from America.

As Sweden's Agriculture Minister, Mr. Anders Dahigren, put it: "We've used the atmosphere as a garbage plant for decades. Now we're suffering the consequences."

Acid rain has already resulted in over 20,000 Swedish lakes becoming ecologically dead or dying. Forests as far apart as Germany and Brazil have withered, and the Acropolis in Athens – along with many fine old buildings and monuments of historical value throughout the world – has suffered more damage in the past 20 years than in all the previous centuries. And, nearer home, the rain that now falls over parts of Scotland contains more acid than table vinegar.

Diamonds are a Red's best friend

IN NT number five we revealed the secret and very profitable links between South Africa and Russia. This concerned the wheeling and dealing between them of the world's precious metals (gold, diamonds, platinum, etc.), in attempts to keep the prices artificially high. The leading person in this fix being Harry Oppenheimer, South Africa's richest Jew.

Now further details have come to light. Once a month, the date a close secret, a Russian airliner flies over a million diamonds into London. From the airport they are taken to the HQ of DeBeers Diamond Trading Company (Oppenheimer controlled) and deposited in a four storey deep vault. In return DeBeers pay the Russians $ 50m.

This is all part of a secret deal struck between the two supposed enemies 20 years ago, in which DeBeers buys up Russian diamonds and then sells them off as her own, thereby helping to regulate the supply and price of the diamond market.

In 1976, another of the Oppenheimer tribe, Sir Philip, even flew into Russia to visit the Soviet diamond mines – and this at a time when White South Africans were fighting Black marxist terrorists!

However, it seems that the Russians can be just as good at crooked capitalist tricks as capitalists the world over. For it has since been found out that the 'diamonds' DeBeers have been receiving, have been artificially mass produced.

Now the South Africans are scared stiff of these man-made diamonds flooding the market, bringing the price crashing down. The alternative is to keep on bunging the Russians $ 50m a month – and not even Oppenheimer can afford that for ever!

THE FINAL SOLUTION

"Well, another successful pre-emptive strike in the interests of national defence. I hope all this doesn't lose us our Most-Martyred-People status!"

THE ISRAELI invasion of the Lebanon has shown that Prime Minister Begin has not changed since his days as leader of the Irgun Zwei Leumi terror gang. The only difference is one of scale. In the 1940's he ordered the murder of scores of British servicemen in cowardly sneak attacks. Now he has one of the best equipped military machines in the world and is using it in an open war of genocide against the Palestinians.

Thousands of civilians have been slaughtered. Hospitals and refugee camps packed with women and children have been blasted with cluster and phosphorous bombs. Doctors treating the young victims of phosphorous attacks report that the wounds continue to burn for hours.

MASSACRE

The scale of the massacre has shocked the world. But the powerful Jewish lobby in America has made sure that Reagan continues to back Israel. This has made the Arab nations even more hostile to the US.

Sooner or later, we will have to pay the price for this, with higher oil prices and resulting economic chaos.

Even more dangerous is that the continual clashes between aggressive Israel and her Arab neighbours may one day escalate into a confrontation between America and Russia. The Middle East has long been known as the short fuse to World War Three; and Israel is playing with fire!

The latest outburst has been planned for years. The personal papers of top Israeli Ministers show that Israel has long been working to destabilise the Lebanon. As early as 1948, the Jews' first President, David Ben Gurion wrote in his diary that the neutral Lebanese state should be overthrown.

OCCUPATION

On May 16th, 1954, a meeting of senior government officials decided to try to persuade a Lebanese army officer to lead a separatist revolt by the country's Christians. A leading Minister, Moshe Sharett, confides in his Diary: "Then the Israeli army will enter Lebanon, will occupy the necessary territory and will create a Christian regime which will ally itself to Israel. The territory from the Litani southward will be totally annexed to Israel . . . I agreed to set up a joint committee composed of officials of the Foreign Affairs Ministry and the Army to deal with Lebanese affairs."

So the slaughter in the Lebanon was not an accident. Nor was it a simple operation against the PLO freedom-fighters, for it was planned many years before the Palestinians ever entered the country and went far beyond the 20 mile buffer zone the Jews claimed to be aiming for at first.

In fact, the rape of the Lebanon is just another chapter in the long history of Zionist aggression which threatens the peace of the whole world.

LAW OF THE JUNGLE

THE once prosperous White-run country of Rhodesia is steadily slipping back into the jungle under Black majority rule. Robert Mugabe's regime is riddled with corruption and hypocrisy whilst gangs of bandits terrorise the countryside.

'President' Canaan Banana roars around the country in a huge limousine escorted by a horde of police motorcycle outriders. Drivers in his path are forced off the road into ditches. In May a woman driver who refused to make way had her car machine-gunned by Banana's goons.

Army commander 'General' Rex Nhongo is drunk most of the time, and when recently entering the country waved away Customs officers with a revolver. His wife, who rejoices in the name 'Spill Blood', spends her time as a Government minister holding Womens' Lib seminars.

'Senator' Makunde spends half his time denouncing prostitution and 'degradation of our womenfolk' and the other half running a brothel in the town of Murewa.

'Minister of Legal and Parliamentary Affairs' Eddison Zvobgo beat up a middle aged White lady in the street. The Black 'Law Minister' dragged her out of her car and punched her repeatedly in the face, leaving her sobbing and covered in blood. The 'Minister of Home Affairs', Herbert Ushwokunze, said that the woman in question was having an adulterous affair. Ushwokunze himself is having an affair with a lady witch-doctor.

NO CHARGES

'Brigadier' Matanga is to face no charges after beating up an elderly White man who was irritating him by playing cricket too near his barracks.

'Director of Information' Nyoka threatens inquisitive journalists with deportation. He is rumoured to be involved in a cover-up over the mysterious 'drowning' of Prime Minister Mugabe's brother Albert. Albert – a convicted embezzler of trade union funds – had been made Head of the new (Government-controlled and 'house-trained') TUC.

Meanwhile, over 4,000 terrorists drafted by Thatcher's British military advisors into the new 'Zimbabwe Army' have deserted and are roaming the countryside in armed bands looting, raping and killing. Former White Rhodesian troops have had to be brought in to hunt them down. Meanwhile the Matabele tribe of dismissed ex-Cabinet Minister Joshua Nkomo smoulders ominously. They still nurture dreams of their glorious imperial past, when Matabeles enslaved the despised Mashona, burning their kraals, raping their cattle, and eating their women, before the White colonialist spoilsports came along to stop the fun.

Well, Westminster wanted Black majority rule, and in today's Zimbabwe they seem to have got a typical specimen of the beast .

PRISON HAS STRENGTHENED MY RESOLVE

by Joe Pearce

MANY readers of Nationalism Today will be aware that I've recently completed a six month prison sentence. This sentence was imposed in January of this year following my conviction under the infamous Race Relations Act.

It is my personal opinion that the Establishment pressed on with the prosecution – even after two aborted trials – and pressed for the harsh sentence which was imposed in order to scare and demoralise the Nationalist movement. They undoubtedly hoped that this act of repression would cause us to take a more moderate and less truthful approach to the reporting of racial issues.

Well, if their intentions were to demoralise and frighten then all I can say is that they have seriously miscalculated. My term in prison has only served to strengthen my resolve for the struggles ahead. Indeed, my incarceration has made me more determined that we will win – and more confident that we can win.

NO REGRETS

However I would first like to emphasise that I have no regrets whatsoever for the stand which Bulldog made against the Race Laws.

When Bulldog first issued its challenge to the Commission for Racial Equality I was fully aware of the possibility of a future prison sentence, but I decided to issue the challenge as a matter of principle. Under my editorship, Bulldog was always forthright with its reporting of racial issues and I wanted to make it clear that this would always be the case regardless of the Race Relations Act.

I knew that the CRE would have to press for me to be prosecuted under the Race Act or else lose face and be seen to climb down. I also knew that the Race Relations Act would be seriously undermined were I to be cleared of any Race Act charges.

The challenge to the CRE, therefore, as well as being a matter of principle, was a gamble which I was fully prepared to take.

As fate would have it, however, the Race Relations industry were successful in their prosecution of me. Or at least they got the result they wanted.

Even this apparent success for the Establishment will, I believe, prove to be a defeat. Their 'success' has backfired simply because the repressive act of imprisoning somebody just for writing the truth has invoked widespread sympathy from ordinary members of the British public. This sympathy, both overt and covert, became apparent to me while I was inside.

SYMPATHETIC

One group who were very sympathetic were the prison officers themselves. Right from the very first day of my imprisonment it was made clear to me by the prison officers that they did not consider me to be a criminal or even that I had committed any criminal offence in their eyes.

On the day I first arrived at Chelmsford prison I was told that the Governor had decided to put me in the top security wing. Since this wing is normally reserved for people doing life sentences or for people undergoing some form of punishment, I asked why this decision had been made. I was told by one of the officers on reception that they were doing this because "B and C Wing are seventy per cent Black." Another officer then put it more bluntly: "It's for your own protection son, the whole place is full of coons."

Consequently, I spent the first three weeks of my sentence in solitary confinement and locked up in my cell for 23 hours a day. During this time though, it became increasingly obvious to me that most of the prison officers were extremely sympathetic. Virtually all of them expressed disapproval of the fact that I was ever prosecuted for writing what I believed in the first place and many of them openly told me that the general consensus of opinion among the officers was that I should not be in prison at all.

One or two officers were even more open in their support. A number of officers boasted to me of their NF membership and several others enquired as to how they could get hold of NF publications. One officer even took me to one side and showed me a National Front sticker which he wore on the inside of his hat and another spent hours discussing the contents of A. K. Chesterton's book The New Unhappy Lords which he'd read some years earlier!

ENCOURAGED

After three weeks of my sentence I was transferred to D wing and it was then that I first came into real contact with the other inmates. I was already encouraged by the attitude of the officers, but I was due to be even more encouraged by the attitude of my fellow inmates. The first thing which struck me was the number of actual National Front and British Movement members who were inside. Most were in prison for racially or politically motivated offences and were not therefore guilty of what one would traditionally call a criminal offence. It was not until I saw these people that I fully realised how many political prisoners are currently rotting in prisons up and down the country. Their only 'crime' is love for their Race and Nation.

However, it was not only the NF and BM who showed me support. The vast majority of the White inmates were extremely racially aware and they tended to stick together against the Black mobs who ruled large areas of the prison. It would be true to say that there were a few race-mixing Whites, but these were a small and generally despised minority.

On top of the encouragement which I derived from the support shown to me by the prison population, I was also very pleased by the amount of support forthcoming from the public at large. This support I received in the form of hundreds upon hundreds of letters. I fully appreciate that many of these letters came from my comrades in the National Front, but many more came from ordinary members of the public who were appalled that somebody could be imprisoned for stating what they all knew to be true. Many of these letters were very touching, such as the letters I received from ex-servicemen who fought for their country during the Second World War and the letter I received from a hard-up old age pensioner who apologised that all she could afford to send me was a one pound note. I was also pleased to receive letters from groups of workers such as those from the shipyards in Barrow.

GRASS-ROOTS SUPPORT

It was this tremendous grass-roots support which I received from prison officers, inmates and general public alike which has made me more determined and more confident than ever.

The CRE are making a bad mistake by sending British patriots to prison for telling the truth because it allows ordinary members of the public to see what we have known all along. It has enabled them to see that Britain is not the democracy and the haven for Free Speech which they may have thought it was.

It was not until I was taken away from the NF and forced to live among ordinary members of the public that I became aware of the huge groundswell of support which we command. These people may still be either unwilling or, in the case of the younger people, unable to vote for us, but they still look upon us as the only people who consistently stand up for the White majority. I am now more convinced than ever that there is a potential for a mass movement of popular support for the National Front. It is now up to us to organise and tap that support.

In many ways, therefore, I have learned a lot from my spell in prison. I am most definitely not in any hurry to return there and I do no relish the thought of spending any more time behind bars. Nevertheless, I am prepared to be sent to prison again if that is the price that must be paid for the Final Victory of Racial Nationalism in Britain. And I believe that there are hundreds of other like-minded people up and down the country who feel the same way as I do.

FINAL VICTORY

My six month prison sentence, far from demoralising me, has made me more determined than ever before that we shall win in the end. But more than this, it has made me feel confident that the victory can be achieved. The potential for mass support is there but it is up to us to utilise it. It will be an uphill struggle and all of us will have to play our part to the full if we are to succeed. The Final Victory is there for the taking as long as we've got the guts and determination to take it!

A LOOK AT THE LATEST READING

NATIONAL DEMOCRAT is a new quarterly magazine, covering a wide range of political and philosophical subjects, that will be of substantial interest to many NT readers. It is edited by Michael Walker who lived until recently on the Continent and who is strongly influenced by the French cultural nationalist group GRECE.

Each issue contains in-depth articles on a particular theme, which to date have been the problems associated with Race, and Nihilism and the modern town. Although the contents of the two issues that have appeared so far are unlikely to be endorsed without any reservations by most NF members the magazine is fundamentally politically sound. The first editorial makes this clear – "Why National? – because this paper is totally opposed to internationalism and that philosophy of economic rationalism which is to be the basis of the future One World State. We do not wish to be labelled 'right-wing'. This old-fashioned categorisation of political thought is worse than useless. The radical internationalist Edward Heath is not a political 'moderate' for being on the 'left-wing of the Tory party' whatever that means."

National Democrat is generally at its best when lambasting the materialism, internationalism, and consequent intellectual barrenness of contemporary European society. Typical of this is an article by the Editor. It's a review of Brian Anson's book I'll Fight You For It telling how local people in Covent Garden unsuccessfully fought the plans of ruthless property speculators and GLC bureaucrats to 'redevelop' the area. Walker's heartfelt opposition to the sterile values of cosmopolitanism is clearly expressed when he writes – "Covent Garden is now only a shell, a shell inhabited and visited only by a rootless class who do not belong in the place at all: a wealthy class too, that goes without saying; more importantly a class that will never make Covent Garden its home. For Anson that is simply 'the middle class' but 'cosmopolitan class' would be a better term, since this is not a 'class' that can be accurately described in merely social or economic terms. It is a class whose attitude is essentially cosmopolitan, and to the extent that he maintains such an attitude a man belongs to this class regardless of the size of his bank balance or what his father did for a living."

The magazine's opposition to Christianity and its associated egalitarian values may cause controversy in some Nationalist circles, as will some comments on Nationalist party politics. Overall though Michael Walker is to be congratulated in producing a magazine that will stimulate interest in areas not covered by most Nationalist publications.

HELP FIGHT PETER HAIN!

THE fortunes of the Anti Nazi League (ANAL) began to wane less than a year after it had been formed in November 1977 when it lost the backing of Britain's premier Zionist organisation, the Board of Deputies of British Jews.

The Zionists pulled out in Summer, 1978 when they learned that ANAL's leaders had been making direct approaches to Jewish businessmen for funds and that not all ANAL leaders were prepared to give Zionism and Israel unqualified approbation in return for the Board's backing.

This split caused the media to start to give ANAL critical coverage, and this in turn led to a trickle from ANAL of the Show Biz, Sport and Media 'celebrities' who had earlier associated themselves with the organisation.

This trickle became a torrent of diarrhoea-like proportions after the publication in October 1978 of Lifting the Lid Off the 'Anti Nazi League', co-authored, edited and published by NF National Activities Organiser Martin Webster.

This magazine exposed the extremist and, in some cases, violent backgrounds of many of ANAL's leading figures.

Among those featured was ANAL's press spokesman, Peter Hain. Hain's sympathy for one John Harris, who exploded a bomb in Johannesburg Railway Station killing an old lady and maiming children, was detailed along with the violent incidents which accompanied his various campaigns against tours of South African sportsmen in Britain.

Copies of the magazine reached leading members of the Putney Constituency Labour Party (which Hain joined after quitting the Young Liberals) at an inconvenient time for Hain. He was campaigning to get selected as the successor to Hugh Jenkins as Labour candidate for Putney, and wished to stifle awkward questions about his past until the selection process was completed. He thus issued a High Court Writ for 'libel' against Mr. Webster.

AUTUMN TRIAL

If Hain expected a "quick kill" (i.e. an apology and a retraction under threat of vast High Court costs), then he was disappointed. Mr. Webster secured lawyers to prepare his case and attend to pre-trial formalities . . . at a cost of more than £1,000. Now the case is set down for trial this Autumn.

If the case is to be fought properly (which, for the sake of the Cause, it must) professional legal representation will be necessary. Mr. Webster's barrister (by no means the most expensive in the land) will require £5,000 for the first day of the trial, and £500 for each subsequent day. Thus a total of at least £10,000 must be raised. Such a target is not impossible, as £2,300 has already been raised during June and July.

Peter Hain

We ask all White patriots of all lands to assist with this fight against one of the most vile enemies of their race. Mr. Webster is prepared to confront Hain's lawyers unaided in the High Court . . . but in view of the complexities of Libel Law, this is not the best option. Hain must be fought properly. If you have ever had experience of an ANAL mob, you will know why.

Donations to help with this case should be made out in favour of "Gegan & Co." (Mr. Webster's Solicitors), crossed "M.W. Defence Fund" and posted to 12 Bowling Green Street, Leicester, LE1 6AT.

THE "REVOLUTION" BETRAYED

READERS of George Orwell's classic political fable Animal Farm will remember how the pigs led the other animals in a revolution to drive out the human farmer and end the exploitation of animals by men. They then proceeded to betray every single principle of their Revolution, ending up boozing and gambling with the stalwarts of the local Farmers' Union and exploiting the other animals far more savagely than any human farmer ever did. Orwell wrote this book to express his bitter disillusionment after a lifetime dedicated to furthering Communism, and modelled the story on events in the Soviet Union from the 1917 Revolution to the Stalinism of the 1940s.

But, like all classics, Orwell's book is just as relevant today. For the inevitable betrayal of the workers by their Marxist 'champions' is not limited to the luxury-dacha-and-big-limousine set in the Kremlin. Nor even to the heirs of Chairman Mao wheeling and dealing with the other super-plutocrats in the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank. As a recent book written by another disillusioned ex-comrade shows, the rot sets in long before the 'Vanguard of the Proletariat' comes to power.

For Philipe Robrieux, himself a former high-ranking party official, has exposed a jet-set lifestyle amongst the leaders of the French Communist Party worthy of the likes of Maxwell Joseph or the Chairman of the CBI. Although his party is only the fourth largest in France, with 16% of the vote, French CP Secretary-General Georges Marchais does himself proud.

MADE TO MEASURE SUITS

He has a luxurious house in an elegant Paris suburb and a country mansion, a chauffeur-driven limousine, a personal bodyguard and full staff of domestic servants, all provided free by the Party. He dresses immaculately to rival the richest Stock Market shark in tailor-made suits of the most elegant Italian cut and hand-made shoes.

The leader of the 'Party of the Workers' buzzes about in his own personal hired jet aircraft. When he wants to 'get away from it all' for a few weeks he takes off for a first-class, all expenses paid holiday in a swish Soviet Black Sea resort, from which vulgar proles are excluded by armed KGB guards so that M. Marchais and family need only mix with the creme de la creme of the Soviet aristocracy. All this is provided free on his Party expense account so Secretary-General Marchais need never dip into his nominal salary of £150 a week.

Marchais' colleagues on the French CP's ruling 'Central Secretariat' share their leader's 'swish' jet-set lifestyle. Each one of these leaders of one of the biggest 'working-class parties' in Western Europe enjoys luxurious living standards, all paid for by the Party.

Not that ordinary members of France's Communist Party do too badly for themselves either. The Party maintains a magnificent six-storey HQ in one of the most striking modern buildings in Paris, worthy of some giant multinational. And it is able to employ an army of 50,000 full-time paid officials. In fact, nearly every CP member earns his living from the Party. Loyal supporters can count on council jobs corruptly dished out to 'the lads' by France's many Communist-controlled town councils.

French Communist Party Leader Georges Marchais lives a life of luxury while ordinary French workers face the misery of the dole.

Anxious to grab even more avenues of patronage and well-paid jobs, the French CP has now entered into a coalition with the ruling Socialist Party. This may mean abandoning most of the Party's policies and hypocritically supporting a wage freeze which endangers the living standards of the mass of French workers.

KING ARTHUR'S CASTLE

British Reds are not yet powerful enough to engage in sickening hypocrisy and corruption on quite this scale. But the signs are there. National Union of Mineworkers Marxist leader Arthur Scargill, for example, maintains a nice town pad at 251 Shakespeare Tower in the plush Barbican development at a £125 a week rent. 'King' Arthur's 25th storey eyrie is not too far from that of his 'hated enemy', arch-reactionary Tory Unemployment Secretary Norman Tebbitt, in Barbican's Lauderdale Tower. And, of course, Arthur has a country residence in Yorkshire and use of the NUM's new £15,500 silver grey 4.2 litre Jaguar limousine.

Meanwhile his predecessor as NUM boss, His Lordship Joe Gormley, has retired to spend his declining years amid the pitheads of Sunbury-upon-Thames, in a £100,000 miner's cottage bought by the NUM. The cottage comes complete with a swimming pool to wash off any traces of coal face muck. His Lordship has been given a Daimler by the Union so he can whizz up and see "the lads" now and again. When the Daily Mail pays him £60,000 for serialising his memoirs he will be able to buy them a round or two.

Jobs for the boys, admittedly on a less extravagant scale than across the Channel, can also be laid on. For instance, Maurice Jones, a CPGB dwarf who fled to East Germany as a 'political refugee' for a while in 1977, recently landed the editorship of the NUM paper The Miner at a cool £11,000 a year. The interview board that selected him for this plum post comprised CPGB vice-president Mick McGahey, and former CP Comrades Lawrence Daly and Scargill.

LUXURY FLAT

Even the tiny New Communist Party, which boasted 513 paid-up members at its November 1980 Congress, can keep its paid officials in the style to which they would like to become accustomed. Their boss, General Secretary Eric Benjamin Trevett, luxuriates in the Surrey stockbroker belt at 10 Birkshead Road, Reigate (tel. 07372-46559) and keeps a Town residence (tel. 01-883 6684). The Editor of its paper, New Worker, Dick Geldart, roars around in a dark-blue Alfa Romeo. Dick's daddy-in-law, millionaire ex-Communist MP Phil Piratin, bought him his luxury flat at 235 Kennington Lane, London S.E.11 (tel. 01-587 0836).

So if Britain's Reds reach the size and power of France's, we will see graft and corruption amongst the Comrades on the scale of Marchais & Co. But British workers, unlike the French, have an alternative to Tory Capitalism and Red Corruption. They have a major national-revolutionary movement to turn to in the shape of the National Front.

British workers, unlike the animals of Animal Farm, have a choice. They can keep on being exploited by the Tory Capitalist 'farmers' or betrayed by the Red 'pigs'. Or they can go pig-sticking with the NF, and send both Red pigs and Tory farmers to the knacker's yard of history where they belong.

TOWARDS ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL FREEDOM

THE NATIONAL FRONT embarked on a programme of ideological development at its 1980 AGM. One of the first results has been the realisation that the present Capitalist ownership structure of British industry and land is wrong. It is morally, socially and economically disastrous for the nation as a whole.

This theme has been developed in a number of important articles in Nationalism Today and New Nation: 'Industrial Ownership and Racial Nationalism' by Joe Pearce; 'The Salvation of Capitalism is NOT an NF Objective' by Martin Webster; 'We are Not Marxists, We are Not Capitalists' by Andrew Brons, and 'Land for the People' by Derek Holland.

Capitalism is the name given to the system where a tiny minority of the population owns most of the means of production – land, factories, machinery and offices – while the majority own at most a heavily mortgaged house and have nothing to sell except their own labour. This leaves them in a position of servile dependence on the masters and the State.

The articles already referred to add up to a complete condemnation of this system. It makes intelligent people nothing more than cogs in a machine. It leads to the accumulation of enormous wealth and power in the hands of private sectional interests, thus undermining the sovereignty of the government. It has resulted in our industry and natural resources being exploited by foreigners. It has reduced our nation to a mere outpost of Wall Street Coca Cola imperialism.

ORGANISATION

The National Front's alternative to this horror has also been developed. Three types of industrial organisation are seen as vital to the Racial Nationalist economy:

Nationalisation in parts of the economy which cannot be sub-divided and which are too important to leave in the hands of sectional interests. These will include the banks; heavy industry, such as steel; much of the transport system; and other enterprises of vital social and strategic importance.

Our main aim, however, is to spread private control as widely as possible, so producers' co-operatives will become the norm for smaller factories. Unwieldy giants such as the motor industry will be broken up to allow this sort of ownership and to encourage a return to variety and craftsmanship.

The third major way of organising production is in the hands of individual and family businesses.

Nationalisation is purely a matter of political will. Strong arguments for state ownership of the banking system were put in 'Spotlight on Policy' (NT issue 8). Contrary to the Tory myth, nationalised concerns can be highly profitable. The "inefficiency" of British Rail and the nationalised steel industry is due to crippling debt burdens, subsidised lorry transport and world overproduction. It is NOT the inevitable result of nationalisation.

The advantages of producers' co-ops were dealt with in the last NT. They are productive, profitable and put an end to the division between management and labour which leads to strikes and other unrest. It is hoped that the excellent film on the Basque co-ops in Mondragon, which showed how well this can work, will be shown at more NF training seminars.

RESPONSIBILITY

The question of small businessmen and the self-employed has not been given so much attention. Indeed some people, including those who should know better, have taken our attacks on Capitalism to mean that we are hostile to this kind of private enterprise. This is politically illiterate drivel. In fact, one of the main reasons for our opposition to Capitalism is that its take-overs and monopolies are just as deadly to the independent worker/owner as is Communism.

The self-employed are in control of their own destiny. This gives them a great deal of freedom, as well as responsibility. It is well known that people will always work hardest for themselves, so these sturdy individuals are major creators of real wealth – goods and services – and are vital to the future Social Nationalist economy.

Hundreds of thousands of people are self-employed today. Builders, mechanics and small shop-keepers are among the most common. But they face many problems and will need a great deal of encouragement if this form of enterprise is to prosper.

OBSTACLES

At present the self-employed face many obstacles. They are disliked by the Civil Service. This is partly because they are much harder to tax. It also reflects the collectivist mentality of State bureaucrats who object to untidy and old fashioned ideas such as freedom and self-reliance.

While giant Capitalist concerns can run tax-loss fiddles and pay nominal amounts, the self-employed have to pay higher rates of tax. But if they fall on hard times, they are not allowed to collect unemployment benefit.

The Banks are reluctant to help them because they frequently have few assets except their own skill and ability.

Most damaging of all is the fact that such a wide range of jobs are involved that the self-employed are not able to form a united pressure group to stand up for their interests.

In order to overcome these problems, the National Front must develop a comprehensive programme to help independent shop-keepers, owners of small family farms and other small businessmen. Monopolies in industry, commerce and land must be broken up. Legislation and punitive taxation must then be used to prevent their re-emergence. We must give preferential treatment to people who work for themselves.

To encourage more people to take this step to productive independence, the interest-free loans made possible by the NF's financial revolution must go primarily to such individuals.

Land owned by foreigners, Capitalist institutions and other absentee landlords must be made available to young couples who want to leave the dole queues or dead-end factory jobs. Well prepared government training schemes will also be vital to the success of this initiative.

VULGAR GIANTS

The traditional private corner-shop has almost disappeared due to competition from the vulgar giant supermarkets of our materialistic age. This trend must be reversed by the socialisation of large stores. They should be broken up, with a lease for each section of the shop passing to an individual – preferably the person who at present works on the same counter. The only real change would be that the profits would go to thousands of Britons, not the likes of the Sainburys and the Sieffs.

Small-scale manufacturing must also be encouraged. Modern machinery makes it possible to run mass production factories with very few human workers. This could free people to pay more attention to the quality of the goods they produce and lead to a restoration of the values of craftsmanship and durability.

We must examine the possibility of re-creating a modern form of the old craft guilds, which worked to protect both craftsmen and consumers.

Today's self-employed are a hard-pressed minority. But they will form the foundations of an important part of the social and economic life of the Racial Nationalist state.

Under fully developed monopolistic Capitalism, just as under its Communist/State Capitalist mirror-image, the self-employed would be wiped out.

Under the National Front, on the other hand, individuals who own and work in their own businesses will be a major feature of industrial, commercial and agricultural organisation – a proud and free people, in a proud and free country!

DEREK HOLLAND

Justice for Palestine

IT IS because Britain suffers a capitalist Press that partiots have come to take for granted the gross distortions and misrepresentations of news items that occur daily. It is a fact that a majority of such distortions are intentional, for the good reason that honest reporting of events would undermine both capitalist philosophy and capitalist control. However, it happens occasionally that an article appears which is so defective, so blatantly incorrect that it stands out prominently in the Fleet Street ocean of lies.

One such article, written by Andrew Alexander and published in Lord Rothermere's Daily Mail, appeared on June 14th with the expressed purpose of analysing the Palestinian problem in the Middle East. The article was probably prompted by Israel's aggression in the Lebanon. The essence of his article was that Israel was justified in her recent actions and that in the event of further similar activity, she had a right to expect the uncritical support of the Western Alliance.

The opening remarks of the article were fair enough in that they demonstrated that western politicians were clearly suffering mental confusion when they proclaimed that the only solution to the Mid-east problem was to guarantee both Israel's right to exist within secure borders and the right of self determination for Palestinian Arabs. Alexander is surely correct in denouncing this proposed solution as "utterly, completely and preposterously irreconciliable," for either this territory is Jewish or Palestinian; it cannot be both. Unfortunately, at this point the common sense comes to an end and the most flagrant pro-Jewish propaganda begins.

UNTHINKABLE

The lengthy catalogue of serious errors begins with the assertion that "it is hard to say who has right on his side in the confused history that surrounds the territory" and from this premise there emerges the argument that since the right of ownership is disputed, it is the duty of British politicians to stand behind that party whose victory will serve British interests. In consequence, Alexander maintains that this country should support wholeheartedly the Israeli cause, for the reason that the Jews are natural friends with whom we have much in common, whilst the Palestinians are "among the world's most bloody awful people."

He proceeds to lay before our eyes the reasons for this unthinkable policy. The staff of the Foreign Office are rabidly pro-Arab. Some members of Parliament are "Arab crazy." Britain is the most anti-Israel country in Europe. Anti-semitism is rearing its ugly head once again. Israel's policy of appeasing these hate-filled Arabs has tragically backfired. Modern terrorism, being of Palestinian origin, has resulted in governments everywhere being cowed into submission. He concludes solemnly: "Ally all these with the growing intellectual and moral confusion of the Western world and perhaps you can explain why the West has been backing the Palestinians."

ANOTHER VICTIM OF JEWISH TERRORISM. Rescue workers carry the body of a teenage girl who was killed when Israeli planes bombed the main Beirut-Sidon road.

MENTAL CONFUSION

Poor Andrew Alexander! He is obviously suffering the very mental confusion that he claims he sees in others! Laughable though his article is, it is important that we analyse a few of the major questions raised by it, in order to demonstrate the sheer enormity of Alexander's lies.

The greatest lie pushed in the article was the idea that the Mid-east problem is so complex and confused that it is difficult to know who is in the right. The fact of the matter is that the Jews have no racial, historical or moral right to the territory called Israel.

The celebrated Jewish author Arthur Koestler in his well-documented book The Thirteenth Tribe, showed decisively that more than 90% of today's world Jewish population are not descended from the Jews written of in the Bible, but from an Asiatic tribe known as the Khazars; given this fact, Jews desiring a national home should return to their ancient stamping ground which is presently situated within Soviet borders.

Secondly, even if we were to assume that today's Jews were descendants of Biblical Jewry, it doesn't alter the fact that they have no historical claim to the land of Israel. If we were to deny the Arabs this land on the pretext that the Jews once inhabited the land 2,000 years ago, it would result in a flood of similar demands. The Aborigines would want Australia back. The Apaches and Sioux would demand the USA. The Celts would be throwing the English out of Britain! The idea is clearly absurd except, it seems, when it involves Jews – then it becomes sublime justice.

These facts alone should be sufficient to demonstrate that the Palestinian cause deserves NF support, but what of the veracity of Alexander's other propositions?

It is more than ironic that of all the numerous government ministries, Alexander should point to the Foreign Office as a bastion of pro-Arab sentiment, the Ministry denounced by Enoch Powell as a "nest of vipers and traitors" on account of its anti-British activities and the one staffed by a host of sickeningly pro-Jewish lackeys.

It is possible that within Parliament's ranks there are a few pro-Arab MPs, but this possibility is of little consequence when we consider that Westminster shelters not only several dozen acknowledged Jews, but also many like Robert Adley who don't wish to advertise their Jewish origins. In addition, there are both many MPs who have Jewish spouses and the gentile pro-Jewish MPs who have sold their principles for financial rewards in the shape of City directorships. When we truly appreciate the size and power of the Jewish lobby in Parliament, we realise that talk of a handful of pro-Arab MPs influencing British foreign policy is absurd in the extreme.

If, as Alexander claims, Britain is the most anti-Israel country in Europe, perhaps he could explain why it is that we take 50% of Israel's trade? No doubt Alexander will only be satisfied that we are not an "anti-semitic" nation when we promise to take all of Israel's trade! Further conclusive proof of Western support for the Israeli cause is that whilst America supplies Israel not only with military hardware of the highest order, but also financial and diplomatic support, she palms off the Arab states with inferior military equipment and worse than useless UN resolutions. With "friends" like America, the Arabs hardly need enemies!

TERROR GANGS

Terrorism is a terrible scourge, but is it justified to say that terrorism was Palestinian in origin? Was it not the Jewish terror gangs, Irgun and Stern, that butchered, shot and drove the Palestinians from their homes in 1948? Was it not the same Menachem Begin who, in his autobiography The Revolt, revelled in the carnage of Deir Yassin which was so horrific in its brutality that it began a life or death exodus of 100,000 Arabs?

Yes, we condemn terrorism, but we reserve our bile for those creatures who provoked a placid Arab people to this extreme by inhuman persecution. Imagine our feelings if we saw 1,500,000 of our people surviving in the chronic squalor of refugee camps, decade after decade, with no hope for a better life. Hyams is surely right when he says: "Before their campaign of terrorism, every politician in the world and most of their constituents were bored stiff with the Palestinians and apart from passing a few resolutions did nothing about them. The terrorists have forced them to face facts; and it looks very much as if nothing short of terrorism would have accomplished this remarkable fact."

Thus, if Alexander must seek a scapegoat for recent terrorism, we suggest that he looks to those who provoked it in the first place . . . the Zionist imperialists.

A final point that must be made concerns the accusation that if it had not been for Arab belligerence, the problem would have been solved years ago thanks to the continual gestures of goodwill shown by the Israelis.

Anyone who studies Jewish thought and the Jewish way of life in any depth will appreciate that they are a most peculiar people, but if their supposed "let's kiss and make up" attitude is reflected in actions such as the deposing and shooting of Arab mayors, torturing politicial activists, censoring newspapers, destroying property, driving Arabs into exile and generally reducing Palestinians to second class citizens, is it really surprising that the Arabs are less than anxious to have Jews as neighbours?

In conclusion, we must question Alexander's motives in writing this lying article, especially since he has become, in recent months, a folk hero of certain reactionary "nationalists". Was it because he was genuinely ignorant of the situation or was it because he was ordered to placate the Jews for indiscretions committed by the owners of the Daily Mail, such as their recent anti-EEC campaign?

Whilst capitalist millionaires may not have the guts to uphold the principle of natural justice, we should do. Accordingly, we should support wholeheartedly the cause of Palestinian self-determination and we should do so for two reasons. Firstly, vital British interests dictate that we ally ourselves with the Arabs; secondly, as nationalists we fully understand and respect the national aspirations of other peoples.

CULTURAL ENRICHMENT

IF THOSE WHO support the idea of a multi-racial America (or a multi-racial Britain for that matter) are to be believed, one of the great advantages of having members of different racial and ethnic backgrounds living together in the same society is that "the cultural diversity enriches everyone's lives."

One way that the lives of American Whites have been enriched by the flood of non-White immigrants pouring into the States has been that White people are again being exposed to diseases that had been wiped out in the US.

Illnesses such as leprosy and bubonic plague are making a comeback, and there are unconfirmed reports about new, incurable strains of VD, all being brought to the States by non-White immigrants from Asia and Latin America.

Another sickness again on the rise is TB, which may be less exotic than the others, but is certainly more widespread and no less deadly.

The Washington Post of the 1st March, 1982, stated:

"A massive influx of immigrants from Asia and Latin America has sharply increased the tuberculosis rate in Los Angeles and in other cities, a change so drastic it has reversed what was a steady decline in tuberculosis cases nationwide. In addition, health workers say, cuts in health budgets and stiff regulation rules have discouraged immigrants from seeking treatment for the disease, greatly increasing their chances of exposing other people."

WHERE Race is involved the Pentagon now seems to have acquired the British Home Office's skills at publishing misleading statistics.

In order to quell fears – highlighted in the last issue of Nationalism Today – that the quality of the US Armed Forces was declining, because it contained a disproportionate number of Negroes, the US Defence Department commissioned a study to compare the intelligence of their servicemen with civilians.

Much to their satisfaction they found that Black servicemen did slightly better at the standard Armed Forces Qualification Test than Black civilians, and White servicemen likewise did better than White civilians. Commenting on these results the multi-racialist and International Capitalist magazine The Economist claimed that "Servicemen are a cut above the population as a whole."

This blithely ignored the fact that the White civilians taking the test just happened to score over double the marks of the Black civilians, and that a massive 33% of US servicemen are Blacks. All the test proved in fact is that Black servicemen are marginally less stupid than their civilian soul brothers, even so 4 out of every 10 black recruits since 1973 have fallen into the lowest mental category acceptable to the US Army.

Ominously for Britain most Black servicemen are in the ground combat forces. In the event of the Soviet Union launching a major assault into Western Europe it will be these forces, mainly stationed in West Germany, that supposedly constitute one of the main bastions of NATO's defences. This shows that Britain cannot simply rely on the US dominated NATO Alliance for her wellbeing, and must become capable of defending herself.

BLACKS HIRED WHITES FIRED

ONE THOUSAND White teachers have been sacked in Boston in order to protect the jobs of Black "teachers". Boston is one of the American cities operating a "positive discrimination" policy, which means that Blacks are thrust into positions they do not possess the abilities for, then safeguarded from any danger of dismissal. Thus, in order to help balance the books in Boston, all the teachers dismissed in the city's education cuts were White.

ONE DAY IN HACKNEY

ANYONE wanting a rapid education in the miseries of multi-racialism could do no better than spend a little time in the London Borough of Hackney. I spent the first nineteen years of my life in the borough, and so I knew all about the sheer wretchedness of the place. However, it was only when I returned for just one day, my memories dimmed by three years of life in the country, that the full horror of the place hit me.

I had returned to look around some of the places I had known during my time there. I started in the road where I used to live. For me, the biggest change here was not the construction of a small block of flats – no doubt containing all the amenities my old house had lacked – but the fact that immigrants now lived there.

Oddly enough, despite living in an area with a huge coloured population, my old road had been one of the last to be so afflicted. We never saw Blacks in our street – right up to 1979 when I moved. The population had always been entirely White and intensely patriotic. In 1977, during the Queen's Jubileee, you would have been hard put to find a road with more Union Jacks in it than ours. Looking at the state of things now however, I wondered how long the old White community spirit could last? It could not be long before the whole road was full of immigrants.

DECAY

From my old road it was only a short walk to Well Street market where I once had a Saturday job on a stall. On my way there I was simply amazed by just how dirty everything looked. Cages put around young trees were full of chip papers and soft drink cans. The pavements were covered in foul matter, and the paving slabs themselves were often cracked and uneven. The sights and smells of decay were everywhere.

The market itself is virtually dead now. When I was a boy there were dozens of stalls in the short and narrow street. Now, even in midweek, there were only about half a dozen stalls dotted around. At the far end of the market stood the main reason why. The super-capitalist, super-Jew Tesco chain had built a huge store here and taken the stallholders' living away overnight. There was another reason. Even though the Tesco chain had cut the ground from under the feet of the traders, few White people would want to trade in the area if Tesco left. A few years ago I remember seeing a gang of Blacks sieze a stallholder's entire takings and make off with it. In this foul and depressing atmosphere the incentive to work hard on your little stall is zero.

Behind the market is one of the nastiest sights in Hackney. An estate that should have been destroyed years ago stands rotting amidst the other derelict buildings around it. This is the Black Man's territory and you can tell. Hugé piles of rubbish are heaped against unemptied bins. Children of various muddy hues clamber up and down the heaps of filth shouting unbelievable obscenities at each other. On one occasion, so a friend told me, a Black had thrown a mattress from an upper balcony without looking to see if anyone was below. A number of elderly White people live on the ground floor, and I saw a face or two peer out into the gloom. These poor people contrast so much with the pensioners of Turnbridge Wells, where I have lived these past three years. For the old Whites of these flats there are no rides to the coast and lunch in a clean little Tea Room. They have nothing but damp walls and constant fear. After forty or fifty years of service to this nation, the likes of Thatcher, Foot and all the others give them nothing but misery. They dare not go out at night, and all through the day the Black youths pound footballs against their walls.

"GUESTS"

I did not want to spend any more time here so I set off for Clapton Pond, passing first by Hackney Town Hall. The composition of Hackney Council often looks more like a list of guests at a Purim party. Labour has controlled Hackney for decades. However, all this rule by the "working man's party" has done nothing for White workers. But then again, the votes are with the immigrants these days.

Clapton Pond itself is an unpleasant place. If you are White and sensible you do not walk around here at night on your own. Gangs of Blacks patrol the area, and if you hear a few screams during the night, it is nothing to get excited about. As I walked along I could see groups of Blacks on almost every corner. They eye every White who passes with looks of undisguised hatred. In the streets leading off from Clapton Pond the coloured population is so big it does not bear thinking about. Perhaps the most graphic example of just how bad things are is on the wall of the large Lea Bridge Road subway. A notice claims that this subway "is frequently patrolled by the police".

From Clapton Pond I took a bus up to Stamford Hill. This is where the Jews live. They stick out like a very sore thumb. With their vulgar dress and arrogant manner you can see that they have never had any intention of trying to fit in with the native Whites. They always remind me of Asiatic overlords come to visit the chattel on the estates. White people could learn from the Jews a good lesson in racial loyalty. Jews in this area have their own schools and make sure that they live as close as possible to each other. Blacks do live in this area, but as a rule they do not live too near the Jews.

Arrogant and violent Black youths are making life unbearable in Britain's cities.

I could never spend more than a few minutes in Stamford Hill before I felt my flesh begin to creep. I therefore took another bus to Dalston. Dalston itself lies on the borders of Hackney and Islington, but the poverty of the place knows no such boundary. I wanted to visit Ridley Road market, which, even as a boy, I knew as the place where the "Blackies" shopped.

FOUL REEK

This market has got to be seen to be believed. Every other face is Black and many of the shops and stalls cater for their tastes. I am not too sure that standards of cleanliness mean anything here, but the Blacks do not seem to care. On the day I was there, a foul reek was hanging over most of the market. The houses around the market are little more than slums. Once again we are in muggers' territory, and I would love to see that bastard Whitelaw walk through here alone around midnight. By now I had seen enough of the market's dirt, flies and Blacks, and so headed back towards the southern end of the borough.

Victoria Park lies in this area, and it is one of the best things left in Hackney. The park is well-tended and a delight in the summer, but even here you keep wondering about the chances of being caught on your own in an open field. I ended my visit with a drink in a pub I used when I still lived in the area. To my delight an old friend of mine walked in. I remembered him as a nice enough chap but not an N.F. supporter. Three more years here had, so it seemed, a rather drastic effect on his views. He was obsessed with worry over the chances of a big riot here during the summer. He told me of how he had only just avoided being attacked himself. Above all, he wanted to move away, as so many Whites have done. At one point in our conversation, he stood up to get another drink. Looking out of the pub window into the darkening streets beyond, he grimaced and said: "You know, Paul, this is a bloody stinking dump."

Israeli Genocide

IT WAS only a matter of time before the representative body of Zionist-Jewry in Britain, the Board of Deputies of British Jews, attempted to pressurise the authorities to deploy the Race Relations Act in such a way as to make it a criminal offence to criticise Zionism and Israel.

That the Board should attempt such a move is hardly surprising for – as I have explained in Troubleshooting before – the Race Relations Act was originally conceived by the Board and promoted on to the Statute Books as a result of the Board's ability to apply pressure on the Establishment through its associates in all three major Parliamentary parties, in the mass media and in Big Business.

Though the Race Act was sold to the Establishment as a means of protecting Britain's ever-growing Afro-Asian Immigrant population from "White racism", it was obvious to those who have studied the Jewish Chronicle and the publications of various Zionist-Jewish pressure groups, that the Board's ultimate objective was to achieve a situation whereby any criticism of organised Jewry, Zionism or Israel would be designated as "anti-Semitism" and, thereby, a criminal offence.

The Board of Deputies have made their long-awaited move to try and establish "anti-Semitism" as the ultimate Thought-Crime, not against the National Front or any other White racist target, but against members of the ultra-Left within Britain's political Establishment, namely: Ken Livingstone and other editors of the Labour-Marxist paper Labour Herald.

In a letter from the Board of Deputies to Sir Michael Havers, the Attorney-General (whose permission is needed before Race Act prosecutions are brought), the Board stated that recent articles in Labour Herald described Israel's policy against the Palestinians in the Lebanon as genocidal.

One article alleged that the Zionists co-operated with the German Nazis "in their destruction of European Jewry" in order to create the climate whereby it would be possible for Zionist-Jews to seize the land of the Palestinians and create the Zionist state of Israel.

A cartoon was also published which showed Israel's Prime Minister, Menachem Begin, standing on a pile of Palestinian corpses dressed in Gestapo uniform, giving the Nazi salute. The caption to the cartoon was "The Final Solution."

I do not think that I need to devote any space to convincing readers that Israel's policy is one of genocide. The appalling slaughter perpetrated in recent months by Israel's forces in the Lebanon has been widely reported in the mass media. Not even the Zionist-dominated media can hush up carnage on such a huge scale.

The excuse which the Israelis have deployed for their latest bout of extermination was the attempted murder in June of Israel's Ambassador to London, Shlomo Argov. Such a disproportionate reaction to the attempted murder of an Israeli ambassador vastly exceeded even the Kristallnacht reaction of the Nazis in Germany to the assassination in November 1938 of the German Ambassador to France, Ernst von Rath, by the Polish Jew Herschel Grynszpan.

Zionist-Jewish terrorists have, of course, never been shy of using assassination as a means of getting their own way – and not just against the representatives of obviously hostile powers such as Nazi Germany or various Arab states.

On 17th September 1948 they murdered the Swedish UN peace mediator in Palestine, Count Folke Bernadotte. Only bungling on the part of the Zionist Stern Gang terrorists prevented a bomb placed under the seat of the British Foreign Secretary, Ernest Bevin, in the House of Commons in 1947 from killing the entire British Government!

Since the establishment of the state of Israel the Israeli Government's secret service agency, the Mossad, has maintained a roving band of assassins who have regularly murdered, by gun and by bomb, diplomatic and political as well as alleged terrorist opponents of Israel.

The Mossad has also perpetrated in recent years a series of "neo-Nazi" terrorist attacks on European Jewish community targets in order to embarrass European governments away from developing diplomatic contacts with the Palestinians or selling arms to Arab nations. The most notorious of these "dirty tricks" operations was the bomb attack on the Rue Copernic synagogue in Paris in September 1980.

ZIONIST IMPUDENCE

It is incredible that the Board of Deputies should have the impudence to object to allegations of genocide being levelled against Israel's current government led by Menachem Begin, since Begin has been wallowing in blood and inciting and perpetrating acts of genocide against Arab people since he was boss of the most infamous Zionist terrorist group of all time, the Irgun Zvai Leumi, in pre-1948 Palestine.

Quite apart from his atrocities against British security personnel in Palestine (the blowing up of the King David Hotel, the wire-rope flogging of Paratroopers, the hanging of Sgts. Paice and Martin in the olive groves of Natanya, to name but a few) he specialised in exterminations of Arab villagers in order to create lebensraum for Jewish settlers.

This campaign culminated in the slaughter by Begin's gang of 250 men, women and children in the village of Deir Yassin on 10th April, 1948. Pregnant women were slit open; pre-pubescent girls were raped and killed; cowering families were machine-gunned; a baker and his sons were fed alive into their own ovens.

Begin not only gloried in this after Israel had been created by such methods. He went on, as a "politician", to advocate that Israel continue with its genocidal activities in order to further expand lebensraum available for Zionists.

In a speech given in Tel Aviv on 28th October 1956 he declared:

"You Israelites! You should never become lenient when killing your enemies! You shall have no pity on them until we shall have destroyed their so-called Arab culture, on the ruins of which we shall build our own civilisation!"

These are just the kind of words attributed by 'Holocaust' propagandists to Adolf Hitler in their continuous campaigns to whip up sympathy for "poor little Israel"!

Israel, under Begin, has recently been perpetrating genocide against the Palestinians in the Lebanon because Begin and his associates have always been genocidalists.

WHY LIVINGSTONE?

The Board of Deputies have singled out Ken Livingstone and his Labour-Marxist chums as the target for their attempt to render anti-Zionism "anti-Semitism" and, as such, a contravention of the Race Relations Act, because they fancy that Livingstone, as boss of the Labour-controlled Greater London Council is currently more of an appealing target for the Conservative Government than the National Front, and because the Labour movement as a whole is likely to be more fearful of or embarrassed by the charge of "anti-Semitism" than the National Front – and more likely, therefore, to put pressure on Livingstone to back down and allow Zionist-Jewry to achieve an easy precedent case on the subject of anti-Zionist "anti-Semitism".

The Board of Deputies may also figure that as the Tory Government is intent on maintaining diplomatic links with the PLO, it may wish to grant the Board of Deputies' application for a test-case Race Act prosecution of anti-Zionist utterances just to show the Jewish-Zionist electorate in Britain (and not least in Prime Minister Thatcher's own constituency in Barnet-Finchley!) just how anti-"anti-Semitic" it is.

If Zionist Jews in Britain champion Israel in its genocidal wars against the dispossessed Palestinian people and in its arrogant contempt for the horror which people everywhere feel for its activities, then they only have themselves to blame when they receive a share of the burden of hatred which Israel is earning.

DESTRUCTION OF CULTURE

Dear Sir,

I recently came across two old copies of Nationalism Today, and was extremely glad to find that there is still some patriotism left in Britain.

How many old buildings, which were part of the cultural heritage of the indigenous British people, were demolished to make way for Pakistani mosques? This mania for destroying the old is invading my country too, but we are only three hundred years old.

Don't the people who allow this kind of vandalism feel the heartbeat of all the centuries of culture, the aspirations and hopes of our ancestors who built with love, who tried to leave something beautiful, which will endure even long after they themselves will have ceased? Don't they realise that each generation is but a link between all the generations that have gone before and those that will come after? We are but the custodians, the stewards, we have no right to wantonly destroy! Are the leaders of today's world so emasculated that these reminders of the greatness of our peoples are intolerable to them?

And to destroy in order to accommodate even the "religion" of an alien people, who have neither the ability nor the wish to sustain the culture of the indigenous people, is pernicious. For, in spite of the egalitarian parrots, these coloured races don't have the ability to sustain our culture. All they can do is to copy the material aspects of it.

As regards the sharing of profits and control of industries by the workmen: Not while people (workers, and to some extent office staff) are nothing but units, attending conveyor-belts. People will only become people, amount once more to something, get satisfaction from their work, if they cease to be conveyor-belt attendants. No amount of money can make people individuals. This is the most serious indictment of mass machines that I can think of: the dehumanisation of work, and the dehumanisation of the people who have to perform that work!

Our ancestors who built beautiful churches and other buildings, had in many respects a hard life, but they were people and they derived pleasure and pride from their work. That is why they were so creative, they worked with their hearts and their minds as well as with their hands.

Yours faithfully,

Miss A. M. Uys, Scottburgh, Republic of South Africa

FALKLANDS HOLOCAUST

Dear Sir,

Falklands Task Force Commander Admiral Sandy Woodward has made a statement of profound interest to all nationalist students of the "Holocaust" myth. Commenting on the plight which faced the thousands of Argentine prisoners when they were first captured, Admiral Woodward said that unless the Argentinians ceased all hostilities, there was a grave danger that many of the prisoners would die of hunger and disease.

Because of the logistical problems involved in caring for all the prisoners, there were serious fears for their safety. All of this sounds rather like the position Germany found herself in at the end of the last war, when she had many more prisoners, but hardly any supplies left to look after them with. However, unlike the British forces in the Falklands, the Germans never got a respite from attack in order to put things right.

One wonders if some of the Argentinians had died, whether or not the substantial Jewish lobby in Argentina, with the help of "experts" like Janner and Gerwitz, would claim that they were really gassed?

Paul Comben, Tunbridge Wells, Kent

"HERESY"

Dear Editor,

May I say how much I enjoyed your article against nuclear power in the February issue of NT. I had assumed that my opposition to nuclear power was something akin to heresy in the nationalist camp! One simply could not imagine such an article appearing in Spearhead. But then Spearhead is so stodgy these days anyway. That's what I like about NT, one can get such a variety of articles. I just wish it came out more often.

With all best wishes,

John Rowley, Blackpool

NOT RIGHT WING

Dear NT,

I received the subscribers' bulletin for this month.

Years ago I used to sell left wing literature on the street and I always found that well produced literature sold better than typewritten photocopied material. Your magazine is good and up to standard. Also it is good that you have a photograph on every page as this breaks up the writing.

Articles showing that you believe in more workers' co-operatives are interesting because it means that the NF cannot be accused of being 'extreme right-wing'. I believe that mining, oil, gas and electricity should be state controlled together with the Post Office and railways.

I also believe that there should be about half of industry as workers' co-operatives, but also that there should be some private enterprises so one can compare efficiency with co-operatives.

Now Israel has attacked the Lebanon it would be a good idea to publish details of the thousands of Arabs killed by them, especially as so many Zionists in the Labour Party pretend to be socialists. I think it a good idea to keep on in the future referring to the war crimes committed by Israel in the Lebanon.

I enclose a donation of £15.

J. B. Good, London E

ONE LAW FOR THEM

Dear Sir,

I am writing to you because I am becoming more and more confused about how to get on in this Britain of ours. For instance, Arthur Scargill, Anthony Wedgewood-Benn and David Lane all receive very substantial wage packets for promoting Marxist and anti-British views.

Also, since the inner city riots of last summer, the Government have gone out of their way to pander to the whims of Black community leaders. Money has been poured into the immigrant areas, and youth clubs have been built for the Black youngsters. The police have been ordered to be less conspicuous in Black trouble spots. Politicians and community leaders were quick to blame the social conditions, such as unemployment for the rioting, looting and wholesale destruction. It seems a little funny to me that White areas did not riot and loot despite there being a lot more White youngsters unemployed than Black.

Recently, a judge released a Black man who had murdered his White, female next-door-neighbour. The judge claimed that the Black man had been subjected to racial abuse and this had caused him to butcher her with a machete. Another judge sentenced Joe Pearce, the Bulldog editor, to six months' imprisonment for revealing the Black crime figures in the inner city areas.

It seems, therefore, that to get on in Britain these days one has to be a Marxist, a rioter, or an immigrant. On the other hand, to be a White Nationalist is a punishable offence.

Yours faithfully,

Ian Donaldson, London E

INCENSED

Dear Editor,

I was incensed to read the letter from Mr. Peter Williams in issue No. 19 of Nationalism Today. If Mr. Williams is looking for "lounge-lizards" he should direct his attention to the parasites of the financial community.

In my own area, Wandsworth, the Council has an income of £114 million. Of this £37 million is paid to Bankers in the form of interest payments. Our people are living in miserable conditions in order that the Bankers can be paid. 10,000 households in Wandsworth suffer from overcrowding. 13,589 homes are unfit to live in. Housing problems in Wandsworth are now so bad that some 1,500 properties would have to be rebuilt each year for the next eighteen years to solve the problem.

People in our area who support the National Front do so not because they want "something for nothing" but because they yearn for a decent standard of living. Is it wrong to expect this after years of hard work in an office or factory?

Patrick Harrington, London SW

Holy Moses!

ON JUNE 26th the 'evangelist' Maurice Cerullo ended a four day tour of Britain. The San Diego based Cerullo enjoys an enormous following amongst elderly West Indian Immigrants over here.

Cerullo is an "ex"-Jew, but now preaches fiery Pentecostalist sermons which end in a scream of "The shaking has started!" This is the cue for his elderly Black followers to work themselves into a frenzy of jigging about and wild cries of "Allelooyah Dere Brudder!"

Cerullo's Deeper Life newspaper shakes more practically: "The Economic Shaking has started. Credit is Tightened. Inflation Heightens" the Godly journal informs its Black readers. Their only salvation is to invest in the Maurice Cerullo Charitable Remainder Uni-Trust. The faithful can also expend their readies on such good causes as the "I Care Prayer Pin" (available in silver or in gold). If in difficulty, just "Give! Give! Give!" (to Mr. Cerullo) upon which all your problems and a hefty slice of your income will miraculously disappear ('tithing' of a tenth of your income to the "ex"-Jewish evangelist is strongly encouraged). If in greater difficulties – likely to prove fatal – Cerullo asks his readers "Have You Made Your Christian Will?" A "Christian Will" can be easily distinguished, it appears, by the fact that it leaves everything to one Maurice Cerullo.

Mind you, Maurice does mix in the right company. According to himself, he has entertained Jehovah in person in the Cerullo living room. His platforms have been graced by personal guest appearances by sundry angels whilst "a light" appears around the personage of the kosher preacher. No doubt to show his elderly Black congregation the direction in which to pass up their lolly.

Correction...

"Law Of The Jungle" on page 7 contains an unfortunate typographical error. The sentence reading "burning their kraals, raping their cattle and eating their women" is obviously wrong. It should of course have read "eating their kraals, raping their cattle and burning their women."

We apologise if this shocking error brought these noble and civilised people into disrepute.

Woops Apocalypse ·2

AN intercontinental nuclear missile centre. A drunken soldier is dusting the missile control panel. Puffing and panting, an enraged General rushes into the room: "What are you doing, you son of a bitch?" he shouts.

"I'm dusting," hiccups the soldier drunkenly.

"Well, where the hell has the United Kingdom gone?"

Diary of a "Revolutionary"

Spent an hour squeezing the blackheads from my nose. As I did, it reminded me of the glorious Brixton and Notting Hill uprisings, where the poor, oppressed, Black population fought back – after severe provocation – against Thatcher's fascist, nazi, racist, sexist, imperialist, capitalist police force.

However, by the time I had finished squeezing all the blackheads, my nose was bright red. Vanessa said it shone like a belisha-beacon and was not at all street-credible.

Therefore Vanessa and I spent the rest of the day in the East Wing of the Mansion.

I thought I might get lucky with Vanessa, but all she wanted to do was to talk about the revolutionary struggle of seventeen blind Latvian Nuns, who were single-handedly fighting a tyrannical fascist military junta.

At times I think that Vanessa just wants to avoid me. Oh, it can be so hard being a man.

Borrowed Daddy's new Range Rover – ever so working class – and went paper selling in Finchley. Nearly sold a copy of Revolutionary Worker.

Dear Doctor Mangler

Dear Dr. Mangler,

I have recently been experiencing terrible pains in my chest. I first noticed them when I bent down to pick up a National Front leaflet which had been pushed through my door. They could have at least used the letterbox.

I have began to think there is something seriously wrong with me. I have lived through two world wars and I was gassed by the Nazis at least 20 times. I have never been ill before. My accountant Manny, told me in confidence, that the vile NF were responsible for his father's heart attack in '39.

Do you think that these NF people can be blamed for my chest pains – and if so, how much can I sue them for?

Alma Lootshidden, Finchley

Dear Alma,

I have dealt with many cases such as yours in recent years, and invariably the chest pains are caused by the patient's money belt being done up too tight. I suggest you loosen it one or two notches on pay day for the next month.

If this doesn't work then write to me again and I will double my fee.

Dear Dr. Mangler,

Ever since I moved into my new flat I have been experiencing excruciating headaches.

I suspect that there is a gas leak in my kitchen and have 'phoned the Gas Board many times. All they do is keep sending this withered old man in a wheel chair with a funny moustache around. He keeps laughing and says that there is nothing to worry about.

Do you think that the gas is causing the headaches?

Worried, Golders Green

Dear Worried,

There were a lot of cases similar to yours – all reported after the last war. Most of these cases were diagnosed as being psychological.

The only way to overcome this is to sleep on the floor by the oven. However, if I'm wrong all your troubles will be over anyway.

Dear Dr. Mangler,

Ever since I started up a small money lending firm, I have had great difficulty in sleeping – I can't sleep through worrying if I will be re-paid.

I've tried all the old cures like counting sacks full of money being thrown into a bank vault – but this doesn't work as I suspect one of the bank employees.

Solly I. M. Skint, Hampstead

Dear Solly,

I don't usually deal with cases like this – but if you contact my old friend Dr. Himmler, at his Harley Street surgery, I'm sure he will be able to find the final solution.

Industrial Front

HEADS I WIN, TAILS YOU LOSE

THE "Great Rip-Off" continues. The Tory Government is still selling vital sections of our industry to capitalists and foreigners.

After the disgrace of the cut-price sale of Amersham International, an even worse scandal has come to light.

It involves the Anglo American Venture Fund. This was set up two years ago with £2 million from the National Enterprise Board. The Fund is supposed to supply money to help promising new high-technology companies to develop their inventions. This is vital if British industry is to keep up with the latest technology from Japan and America's 'Silicon Valley' in California. In fact, that's not how things are working out.

When the Anglo American Venture Fund was set up, Sir Keith Joseph was the Tory Secretary for Industry. He invited Jack Melchor to run the Fund in return for a large, but undisclosed, management fee. Melchor was described in the Sunday Times Business News (18.7.82) as "a Californian venture capitalist." Radical Nationalists would use less polite descriptions; even the Sunday Times was critical of his position in the Fund, calling it a case of "heads I win, tails you lose."

As head of the Fund, Melchor looks at high technology companies in the North of England and decides which ones to back. He then directs vast sums of taxpayers' money into them, leaving the inventor or original owner with only a minority stake.

At this stage, the main share in the business is owned and paid for by the government. In one case, for example, Melchor put in only £400 of his own money, compared with £270,000 from the government Fund.

If the firm goes bust, he stands to lose very little; but if it does well, Melchor has the right to buy out the taxpayers' stake and take their part of the profits for himself.

Margaret Thatcher and Keith Joseph: Their reactionary policies are making it easy for Big Business parasites to make a killing

As even the Sunday Times noted: "This means that he gambles principally not with his own cash, but with British taxpayers' money."

According to a leading electronics consultant, the main aim of the Fund is not to help British industry, but to "make a killing."

The Conservatives are so pleased with this financial vulture that he is now to get even more money. The state-run British Technology Group is helping Melchor to set up a £10 million fund to expand his interests still further.

One thing is clear. If this happens, the growth of new technology will bring few benefits to ordinary folk. In the nightmare Britain of Mrs. Thatcher, Sir Keith Joseph and Jack Melchor, people exist to serve machines. Anyone who suggests that things should be the other way round is considered a dangerous madman.

But in days to come, it will be seen that the real lunatics were the ones in power who sold their nation and race to American capitalism.

10 Point Plan For Full Employment

TOMORROW BELONGS TO US!
We demand our 10 Point Programme For Full Employment now!
BAN EXPORT OF CAPITAL
BAN IMPORTS OF CHEAP ALIEN LABOUR
GET BRITAIN OUT OF THE COMMON MARKET
RE-TRAINING FACILITIES FOR NEW TECHNOLOGY
NO REDUNDANCIES WITHOUT RETRAINING
NO JOBS FOR ALIENS WHILE BRITONS ARE UNEMPLOYED
IMMEDIATE IMPORT CONTROLS
CREATE REAL JOBS NOT COSMETIC "JOB-SHARING"
NO "OVERSEAS AID" – EXCEPT IN BRITISH PRODUCTS
INTEREST FREE LOANS TO GENERATE PRODUCTION
Remember: If WE don't get work who will pay YOUR pensions?
Printed and published by NF, 50 Pawsons Rd., Croydon, Surrey CRO 2QF.

A NEW leaflet published by the National Front has proposed a 10 Point Programme for Full Employment.

On the front side of the leaflet (reproduced on the left) there are ten main demands of the Programme for Full Employment, while on the reverse side there is a more detailed explanation of what the National Front would do to ensure that every British worker has a job.

This leaflet is without doubt the most radical to be produced by the NF to date. Besides the hard-line approach to the importation of cheap foreign labour, the leaflet also makes some very strident economic demands. These include a demand for the banning of all exports of capital, and a demand for interest free loans to generate production. The leaflet also calls for the scrapping of "job-sharing" schemes and calls for the creation of real jobs instead.

Price – £4 per thousand. Apply to National Front, 50 Pawsons Road, Croydon, Surrey CRO 2QF for details of postage rates. Cheques/POs payable to National Front.

More Imports Less Jobs

IN PREVIOUS issues of NT, we have detailed how the "all British" Metro was, in fact, 70% foreign – by virtue of the large number of imported components used on it.

Now we hear that British Leyland has ordered seat recline switches from France, again for the "all British" Metro. The order is thought to be worth around £3 million.

But this is nothing new. The seat reclining switches are just part of the £60 million that British Leyland's Austin Rover division spends overseas.

Meanwhile, thousands of British workers rot on the dole for want of work.

Only the National Front says: BAN FOREIGN IMPORTS – BRITISH JOBS FOR BRITISH WORKERS!

Wages of Valour

NOW THAT they have risked their lives for our country in the Falklands war zone, 129 British merchant seamen volunteers crewing the P&O liner Canberra during its service as a troopship are to get their reward from the steamship company – the sack.

The British volunteers, all members of the National Union of Seamen, were brought in to replace non-union Indian sailors when the Canberra sailed to war, in which she came under repeated Argentine air attack.

A P&O spokesman said: "We are full of praise for the valour and heroism of these men. But to go all NUS would put up our costs so much that we would no longer be able to operate Canberra because our foreign rivals have lower costs." So the Indians are to be brought back.

So patriotic British trade unionist heroes are thrown on the dole to make way for cheap Coloured blackleg labour. Such is Thatcher's Capitalism.

"Abolish Bank Holidays"

SIR Walter Goldsmith is the Director-General of the Institute of Directors, the elite of British Capitalism. The Institute has always been to the fore in union bashing and in the calling for wage freezes.

Now Goldsmith has gone one step further. This time he wants to abolish our Bank Holidays. He thinks that we have too much time off as it is.

However, Goldsmith shouldn't stop there. How about abolishing the Easter and Christmas holidays and replacing them with days off to 'celebrate' the Passover and Jewish New Year?

PORTSMOUTH WELCOMES OUR SHIPS

THIS is the first of a regular series of articles by Ian Anderson about the Groups and Branches of the National Front. These will not necessarily be about the biggest units of the Party but will concentrate on those which show flair and enthusiasm in the promotion of the National Front.

H.M.S. Hermes being welcomed home to Portsmouth

"GINGER" KNIGHT, the Portsmouth National Front Organiser, joined in with the thousands of local people to welcome home each of the ships of the South Atlantic Task Force. As each ship docked "Ginger" and a group of NF members were on the quay armed with Union Jack flags embellised with NF insignia and with stocks of Nationalism Today, National Front News and Bulldog.

As the crowds waited for the ships to dock they were eagerly snapping up copies of all the latest National Front papers.

When the flagship of the Task Force, HMS Hermes, returned from the Falklands, "Ginger" went one better – he managed to borrow a 17 ft. boat, decorated it with his National Front flags and sailed out to welcome the ship's crew home. This series of activities by a group of National Front members has won the Party substantial support from local people who have been impressed by their vociferous patriotism and their support for our armed forces.

Portsmouth Organiser "Ginger" Knight

"Ginger" regards this type of activity as a very useful way of demonstrating the patriotism and sincerity of the National Front and also as a way of identifying the Party with the patriotism of the local people.

HARD WORK

But "Ginger" also knows that the only way to build an efficient unit of the National Front is by hard work. Every Saturday he takes his team of activists into the shopping centre of Portsmouth to sell papers: "Occasionally we have trouble with the Reds, but they're not going to stop us from selling."

Last year when a Regional march was held in Portsmouth the local Communists organised to bus in coach loads of student Reds to try to halt the march. Despite several attempts to violently stop the NF members they were able to force their way through the Red mob to the cheers from local onlookers.

The refusal by Portsmouth National Front members to back down in the face of this type of violence has enabled the Group to win much good publicity and to recruit new members.

"Ginger's" main complaint about the Party has been the lack of leaflets over the last few months, which has been caused by some units not paying their literature deposit.

When told that a large stock was now available "Ginger's" reaction was: "I want an immediate 4000, we'll be out with them next week."

Portsmouth may not be the biggest unit of the National Front but they are determined to recruit new members and to seize every opportunity to spread the Nationalist message.

WHO SPEAKS FOR THE WHITE WORKER?

AT THE BEGINNING of this century the workers of Britain lived in conditions of terrible poverty. Today, thanks largely to the struggles of the early Labour Movement, conditions have greatly improved. Materially the British worker has improved his lot, but in many ways he lives a miserable existance not dissimilar from that of his ancestors. The cramped slums of the late Victorian era have developed into the multi-racial slums of today. The miserable wages paid to workers in those days have been replaced by the pathetic allowances paid to the unemployed by today's incompetent Tory government. Despite the passing of eight decades, the working class remains abused and neglected by the traitors in the political and financial establishment.

Eighty years ago, the small but steadily growing Labour Movement seemed to offer a real chance of improvement for Britain's workers. The Labour Movement of that time included some of the greatest brains in recent political history, such as Bob Blatchford and Keir Hardie. They were motivated by a real concern for British workers, which translated itself into a radical form of nationalism, seeing the whole population as part of a team working for the common good through their own labour. This was real socialism.

PARASITES

Unfortunately, other people had eyes on the infant party. By steady infiltration and intrigue the Labour Movement was infected by a mob of alien parasites and ideas. Instead of being a party for White workers, the Labour Movement became a tool of all manner of Marxist Jews and Zionists, who were happy to use the votes of hoodwinked workers to help them implement their anti-White policies.

The evidence for this coup is not hard to find today. The Labour Party stands in support of just about every cause detrimental to White workers. They are delighted to see immigrants take the jobs of White people, and are only too willing to persecute those who seek to expose their treason. The party that Keir Hardie and his comrades worked so hard to build no longer exists.

ANGERED

So what does remain for White working people today? It is true that many are now so angered by the failure of the Labour Party to fulfil its promises to them that they are seeking an alternative. The manipulators behind the scenes are fully aware of this and are trying to con voters with the "brand new" SDP/Liberal Alliance. This group of political misfits are firmly controlled by the same sinister forces who perverted the original Labour Movement. Behind the flabby grin of "Woy" Jenkins and the vacant features of David Steel are a group of people dedicated to continuing this nation's decline into a mongrelised wasteland. They have no interest whatsoever in the needs of White workers.

The voice of the White working class is not to be found in Labour Party intrigues or in any other Jew-backed "alternative". The National Front, through its own efforts alone, now occupies that proud position. The policies that have evolved within our party over the past two years are rightly suited to meet the problems White workers face today. When Whites fear the closing of their factories, only the National Front pledges to rebuild and protect our industries. When Whites fear to walk alone in streets that are almost entirely Black, only the National Front calls for total repatriation. It is the same with workers' control of industry, fair deals for our pensioners, the right to a decent home, better education and welfare services that are not linked to an ability to pay, and a dozen and one other cases as well. Only the National Front promises these things and really means what it says.

SUBVERT

In the years to come the White working class will continue to form the basis of our support, and it is there that we must concentrate our resources. This is not to ignore our folk in other social groups but to recognise a simple truth. It has been the working class of this country who have been on the receiving end of just about every foul plot to subvert the fabric of our nation. In the past theirs has been the greatest sacrifice and suffering, it is only right that they should reap the reward. The White workers of this country have already shown in their hundreds of thousands that they are willing to give us a try, and it is our solemn duty not to abuse their growing faith in our movement.
